BLUE SOX BEAT BEATTYVILLE IN 10 INNING FRAY

(By Jerry Franklin)

The West Liberty Blue Sox made it three in a row over Beattyville at the Lee County capital Sunday as they racked up Blue Sox victory number 7, 6-3 in 10 innings.

Big Steve Hamilton was the big wheel in the victory as the sensational southpaw twirled a 4-hitter that saw 20 Beattyville batters bite the dust through the strikeout medium.

West Liberty with a 2-run first inning, a walk, single, an error and two infield outs accounted for the tallies.

West Liberty increased it to 3-0 in the third by combining a single and a double to plate a marker.

Beattyville made it 3-2 in the fourth on a hit-batman, a single, an error and a fielders choice. They came back to deadlock the affair in the fifth at 3-3 and thus set the stage for the overtime duel.

The contest remained 3-3 until the top of the 10th when two singles, two walks, and two Beattyville errors counted three Blue Sox runs and ended the game at 6-3.

Curt Hall came on to pitch in the 10th for Beattyville and absorbed the loss.

Stacy and Ratliff with 2 hits apiece paced West Liberty.

MORGAN NATIVE IS PROMINENT IN WEST

Oklahoma, this year is observing fifty years of statehood, and many special editions of newspapers are being published in commemoration of the event. A native of Morgan county, Fred Patrick, is a prominent citizen of Sapulpa, Creek County, Oklahoma (Indian territory), and the following writup of Mr. Patrick was used in the Semi-Centennial edition of The Democrat News published at Sapulpa:

Fred L. Partick, chairman of the Western Dress division of the Sapulpa parade, may well have been chosen for that job because he is an authority on the subject.

Patrick was born April 6, 1889, in the mountains of Kentucky and migrated with his parents to the state of Texas in 1894. There they lived on a cotton plantation for a period of eight years, coming to Mounds, Indian Territory on February 10, 1903, where the family settled on a farm south of town.

At Mounds, the Patrick family engaged in farming and stock raising during the summer months, and the father taught school during the winter months. In 1907 Patrick was valedictorian of the first graduating class at the Mounds high school. There were 15 graduates at Mounds, four at Sapulpa and two at Tulsa that year. Later, it was voted by the people of Creek county to make the Mounds school the Creek County high school. Then, the school was supported by the county through taxation, but was finally abolished in 1914 and returned to the name of Mounds high school.

Patrick attended the Institute of the Department of Interior in 1907 and was appointed by the Five Civilized Tribes to teach in what was then known as the Seminole Nation.

He was the County Superintendent in 1913 when the courthouse was located where the Berryhill building now stands, and

Interesting Demonstrations Seen At Farm and Home Field Day In Morgan

Albert Clay Avers
Effort Being Made To Destroy Tobacco

The annual Morgan County Farm and Home Field Day was held on the Volney McGuire farm on Lower Long Branch Tuesday, July 30, with near 400 people attending.

C. S. Jackson, president of the Morgan County Extension Service Advisory Council, opened the meeting and introduced Rev. Joe Nevius, pastor of the West Liberty Christian church who gave the invocation. Mr. Jackson then called on the County and Home Extension Agents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Sinclair, who introduced guests and the people who would appear on the program during the day. Other agencies represented were the Morgan County Soil Conservation Service by Berlyp Brown, who is in charge of the county office, and the Morgan County ASC, represented by the county chairman, Joe Frank Ferguson.

The program consisted of activities, demonstrations and events for both men, women, 4-H club members and teen-age 4-H club members.

Mrs. Christine Gevedon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Volney McGuire and Home Economist for the Kentucky Utility Company, gave an interesting demonstration of "Freezing Foods." Her husband, Robert Gevedon, who is a medical technician at Good Samaritan Hospital in Lexington, attended.

Farmers and business and professional men interested in farming saw a result demonstration of five tobacco varieties including Kentucky 9 and Kentucky 4 which are growing under field conditions for the first time. Kentucky 61 and Burley 21, both resistant to the disease wildfire, were observed also. Ira Massie, Extension Service Tobacco Specialist, discussed each variety, and called on George Corder, Extension Service Soils and Agronomy specialist, to discuss fertilization. The group saw an outstanding field of Burley tobacco, Massie told the group to top high and save the small tip leaves.

The group saw an excellent corn demonstration that included 20 varieties. George Corder discussed the Kentucky numbered corn varieties Kentucky 105 and 106A, but said the seed would not be on the market for another year. Mr. Ferguson of Funk's seed company discussed some of the BIG PLANT TO BE BUILT IN EAST KY.

The Columbia Gas System will build a hydrocarbon processing plant on a 160-acre tract it bought recently from the C. & O. Railway at Silome in Greenup county, and this new plant will be connected by pipeline with an affluents processing plant to be built near Kenova, W. Va.

The two plants will extract valuable hydrocarbons from oil and gas from its pipelines in the tri-state area, a company spokesman said. When extracted, these hydrocarbons have an intrinsic value far greater than their pure fuel value. "Appalachian natural gas is especially rich in hydrocarbons," the spokesman said. The extracts are in great demand in the chemical and plastic industries.

Construction on the Kenova plant will be started in September and work on the Greenup county plant will start next spring. The Silome plant will ultimately produce annually more than 200 million gallons of ethane, propane, butane and natural gasoline recovered from natural gas streams in Eastern Kentucky and Western West Virginia.

The Silome project plus storage facilities and the pipeline will cost 5 million dollars and the Kenova plant 8 million.

The new Kenova enterprise will replace two existing extraction facilities of United Fuel-Leach dryer in Boone county, Ky., and Warfield dryer in Martin County, Ky.

New Bit Sharpening Firm Here Gets Business Over A Wide Area

Arthur C. Campbell, manager of the new Liberty Bit Company, said Wednesday that the new enterprise is having good business.

Mr. Campbell was in Pikeville about the time of the flood looking for a location and came on to West Liberty and decided to locate here. He had done work for the Licking River Limestone Company, Kentucky Road Oiling Company and the REA. He had worked for the Blue Diamond Mine Company in Perry county and had 35 years experience in similar work.

Associated with Mr. Campbell is Jasper Dennis who travels over East Kentucky to Pikeville and other varieties of closed Hybrids. George Corder discussed the use of 1-1-1 ration fertilizer such as 12-12-12 or 14-14-14 on corn.

The group heard Volney McGuire discuss use of a 12-12-12 fertilizer on corn. Russell Brown, the only local farm supply dealer present, was introduced to the group.

Mr. Corder, extension specialist, told the group that farmers were not using enough nitrogen or potash on corn and said that corn needed an extra supply of nitrogen when it was just beginning to shoot and tassels. The group called the field an excellent field of corn.

Mr. Corder warned the farmers that in using high analysis fertilizer that it should be broadcast or put on in a band beside the row and should not come in direct contact with the corn seed as poor stands would result.

The group heard Charles Walters of Nckell tell about Turkish tobacco and saw a 21 pound bale of the cure tobacco from his crop. James Thomson, Safety Director for Kentucky Utility Company from Lexington gave an outstanding Electrical Hazard Demonstration actually using models and electric current in illustrating "High Line Hazard Demonstration."

Rev. Glen Lawson gave the blessing before the bountiful chicken dinner served by Morgan County Homemakers Clubs.

Albert Clay of Mr. Sterling and President of the Burley Warehouse Association of the entire Burley belt, told the group that "The tobacco industry has been singled out by people who are trying to destroy the entire tobacco industry in this country. They have not been able to do it."

PHONE CO-OP GETS $309,000 REA LOAN

The Rural Electrification Administration in Washington Wednesday approved a loan of $309,000 to the Mountain Rural Telephone Cooperative Corporation of West Liberty to cover purchase price and cost of improving the Frenchburg Telephone Company in Menifee county, Congressman Carl Perkins phoned the Courier Thursday.

Purchase of the Frenchburg system by the Mountain Rural Co-op for $300,000 was announced July 1 by Woodrow W. Barber, manager of the co-op.

At the same time, the Mountain Rural Co-op applied for a loan of $379,000 to convert the Frenchburg office into a dial system and extend telephone lines into Menifee county areas an additional 124 miles to accommodate an additional 225 phone users. Also to be built is a central dial system office in Frenchburg to replace the present switchboard office.

Acquisition of the Frenchburg system by the three-county co-op will create a four-county cooperative dial phone system covering Morgan, Elliott, Wolfe and Menifee counties. The co-op has headquarters in West Liberty and has approximately 1,200 users in Morgan, Elliott and Wolfe. The expanded Menifee system will add 443 users, making a total of about 1,650 users, Barber said.

AUSTIN HILL TELLS OF ABSENTEE VOTES

I am very grateful to the people of Morgan County for re-electing me County Clerk. All during my first term in office I tried to be courteous, honest and efficient. I promise to continue to serve the people to the very best of my ability.

There have been many misleading statements regarding the absentee voting. Most of the false rumors were spread by those who didn't know the true facts, but some, I am sorry to say, were willfully started by those who knew better. It was wisely talked for the county clerk was voting dead people. That was completely false. When the absentee ballots were counted one by one and the names of the voters were examined on the envelopes it was proven that there had been no voting of dead people.

Other false statements regarding irregularities were cleared up when the ballots were counted. My deputies and myself followed the letter of the law and sent ballots only to those who were registered legal voters. A few people did not understand why some of the ballots had been removed from the ballot books before the books were sent out to the precincts. Section 126.190 of the Kentucky Revised Statutes provides, in part, "After having made the entries above required, the county clerk SHALL REMOVE THE BALLOTS FROM THE BOOK, with the secondary stubs attached, and shall send the ballots of each voter to the address given by him in his application."

My deputies and I endeavored to follow the statute in every respect and I want to assure the voters of Morgan County that there was nothing wrong in the way the absentee voting was conducted.

For fear that some of the misinformation spread during the campaign would be believed, however, I thought it my duty to make a public statement of the facts.

My office is open at all times for inspection by any citizen. All records in my office are open to the public.

FARM OUTPUT LOWEST LEVEL IN SIX YEARS

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 30—America's farm crop output this year is predicted to be the smallest since 1951, but it is expected not to make any large cutback in the supply of farm products.

Carryover supplies of many of the big-money crops—despite efforts to export surpluses—are running much larger than usual in some cases and balance the down-trend of other products.

Corn is a key to the outlook, as described in the Agriculture Department's latest over-all farm survey in its "demand and price situation" periodical.

Supplies of processed vegetables are also high. Tobacco carryover supplies are substantial, but the harvest will be the smallest in 50 years, and prices in Florida and Georgia auctions are already a little higher than last year.

Output of dairy products will beat the 1956 record but prices should hold firm. Soybean acreage is booming.

Livestock of all kinds shows no signs of equaling the 1956 level.

Home Loans Made Available Through New V.H.M.C. Plan

Orville M. Howard, State Director, Federal Housing Administration, announced today that funds are now available for financing individual homes through the Voluntary Home Mortgage Credit Program with FHA loans.

This program was established to assist persons in small communities in obtaining loans for purchasing of homes. In many communities FHA loans are unavailable through normal channels.

Through the V.H.M.C. private lenders agree to make loans in communities under 25,000 in population if the applicant has been unable to obtain FHA financing through the local lending institutions. The applicant's property and location must be acceptable to the FHA and the applicant must have a credit standing satisfactory to the FHA and an income sufficient to satisfactorily make the payments.

Persons interested in FHA loans through VHMCP should write Mr. Benjamin H. Ernest, Executive Secretary, VHMCP Regional Subcommittee, Room 604 U. S. Court-house, Nashville 3, Tennessee.

MORGAN NATIVE IS FOUND DEAD IN MENIFEE COUNTY

Atty. Thomas F. Walter, 66, of Menifee county and a native of Morgan, was found dead last Saturday a few miles from Frenchburg.

The body was partly decomposed. He had apparently been dead several days. He had stayed all night Tuesday, July 16 at the home of Mack Pearson and had left next morning to go to Frenchburg. This was perhaps the last time he was seen. He was traveling a path enroute to Frenchburg and it is believed he stumbled and fell over a bank or had suffered a heart attack and rolled down the bank and over a cliff.

His hat and glasses were found near the top of the cliff and his billfold containing $65 was in his pocket.

Dr. Donald Graves, coroner of Menifee county, visited the body Saturday morning and laid an inquest. He reported death was from an accident, and that no foul play was suspected.

L. H. Owens of the Potter Funeral Home in West Liberty went to the place Saturday and brought the remains to West Liberty. The body was badly decomposed and very little could be told from an examination, but he said no foul play was suspected.

Funeral was conducted Sunday and burial was in the family cemetery at Malone.

Mr. Walter was well known in Morgan. He was born and reared at Malone and taught school in the county several years. He had practiced law here and at Frenchburg.

He resided in an apartment in Frenchburg for several years. At one time he was a candidate for county attorney in Menifee county.

ESCAPED LIFER IS RE-CAPTURED IN
ELLIOTT TUESDAY

Sheriff And Posse
Take Beechel Fraley
At Former Home

WEST LIBERTY, Ky., July 30—Beechel Fraley, 47, an escaped lifer, was re-captured at dawn Tuesday morning at his former home in the Ruin section of Elliott county by Elliott County Sheriff June Lewis, three deputies and five State Police.

The posse found the escaped convict in bed and had no trouble in placing him under arrest, Sheriff Lewis said.

Fraley had escaped from a State prison farm near Danville March 25 by jumping from a milk truck and fleeing from the guards. He had been sentenced to life imprisonment from Elliott county in May of 1954 for the slaying of Odell Pennington in the Brown Ridge section of Elliott county.

Pennington was killed by a 45 caliber pistol bullet while asleep. The escaped prisoner told officers he had stayed around Danville for three weeks after his escape, then came to Elliott. Officers found him in bed upstairs in the house the Fraleys abandoned soon after he was sentenced to the penitentiary. His wife was with him when officers entered the house. They found the couple in an upstairs bedroom.

Sheriff Lewis was accompanied by Deputy Sheriffs Edward Whitt and Neville Adkins and Elliott County Jailers Charles Oliver and by five State troopers.

The escaped prisoner was taken to Morehead State Police district headquarters and then will be transferred to LaGrange prison.

Rep. Perkins Takes Issue With Benson

WASHINGTON, July 27—Rep. Perkins (D-Ky.) today took issue with Secretary Benson over a tentative Department of Agriculture decision not to assign tobacco graders to new tobacco warehouses until next year after they open.

Perkins said the department's decision, if carried out, could crush business at a new Morehead, Ky., warehouse before it gets started.

"I for one never intended to give the secretary of agriculture such absolute authority over the establishments of new markets," Perkins said.

Perkins expressed the hope Benson would assign graders to the Morehead market before the coming season so "we can have a regular market for the following year."

Perkins said neither buyers nor sellers will patronize a market without graders, making a second year of business for such markets highly improbable.

Both Republican Senators Cooper and Morton of Kentucky have voiced agreement with Perkins' position.

U. S. ECONOMISTS
PREDICT A HIKE
IN FOOD PRICES

WASHINGTON, July 23—The Agriculture Department predicted today that retail food prices during the months ahead will continue moderately higher than a year ago.

It based this forecast on prospects of a continuation of the present high levels of employment and consumer incomes.

In a report on the national food situation, the department also said that prospects now point to a food supply large enough to maintain civilian consumption during the second half of the year at about the rate of the past year.

It said retail food prices during April-June quarter of 1957 averaged 3 per cent above those of a year ago despite the fact that farm prices were about the same in both periods.

Infectious Hepatitis Is On Increase In State

Reported cases of infectious hepatitis (jaundice) in Kentucky during the last 12 months number 464, nearly twice as many as in the previous 12 months period. The disease spreads from person to person by close contact and also may be transmitted in contaminated water. There is no diagnostic test for infectious hepatitis, but anyone who has been contact with an infected person and who, within six weeks, develops jaundice, nausea, muscle pains and other symptoms, probably has the disease. Although the disease is usually mild, the patient requires rest and a nutritious diet. There are no general immunization methods available, but gamma globulin will give temporary protection.—State Department of Health Bulletin.

A demonstration of dangers of contact with uninsulated electric power lines was presented at the Morgan County Farm and Home Field Day July 30 by James R. Thompson, assistant system safety director of Kentucky Utilities Company.

He used a model set-up to show results of contact with "high lines" by a falling TV antenna, metal kite string, the boom of a traveling crane and what happens when a live wire falls across an automobile. The models were developed for safety training for electric company employees but Mr. Thompson has developed a program around them which has been a popular feature of club and school programs throughout the state.

Love Made Visible At Work Camp Of United Presbyterian Church, Ezel

If a little church mouse could tell a story of the happenings at the Ezel United Presbyterian church this past week he would be a confused little mouse. So much has happened in such a short time. Saturday evening 27 young people and their leaders arrived in the Ezel community to begin a two-week work camp. This is their way of expressing to the Lord in a visible way their thanks and gratitude for His many wonderful blessings. These young people have come from all over the United States, from various backgrounds and with many interests for a life work.

By Thursday morning the things they had done included tearing down the old power house and out houses, removed all the debris from buildings and grounds, removed side walks and replaced them with new ones. The main sanctuary of the church is in the process of being repainted.

Each day three girls serve on the kitchen committee and assist with the meal planning and the dishes. This program is sponsored by the Board of American Missions and the Youth Fellowship Department of Youth Work of the United Presbyterian Church. Each work camper pays his or her own way to and from the project. The Board of American Missions picks the project and pays the cost of it. The Youth Department recruits the workers and leaders and pays for the food.

It is an honor to be chosen a Work Camper and the candidates are screened very carefully.

Rev. Orus Rupe, the host pastor, is a local man. He attended Ezel High and was a member of the Ezel United Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Orus Rupe, the pastor's wife, is a native of Pittsburgh, Penna., and has lived here for two years and is well known locally. She is a 4-H leader in Morgan county. She is the "Aunt Mary" for the camp.

Mr. Paul Bunn, the Work Boss, has charge of all labor. He assigns each one to a job. Everyone is welcome to come and help but must sign in to Mr. Bunn so no time or effort is wasted on the job. Mr. Bunn is a professor at Monmouth College, Monmouth, Illinois.

Mrs. Paul Bunn is in charge of the kitchen. This is perhaps the second busiest place around. The meals have been very delicious. Mrs. Bunn is a Home Ec teacher. Needless to say she is a very popular person in camp.

Rev. Jerald Shave of West Alexandria, Pa., his wife Dottie and son Dickie are with the camp also. Rev. Shave is the Camp Director. Mr. Shave has charge of all purchasing. He is responsible for the Bible study and all other things connected with the camp except the actual work plans.

All members of the camp were amazed at the productivity of the country side and with the well-kept property in the Ezel community. Rev. Rupe explained to them that these and changing times and the community and church must be prepared to meet the needs as they arise.

Many young people from the community are working and playing with the Work Campers. Welcome also are youth groups and service organizations. They may avail themselves of the opportunity to show these young people that the folks in Morgan county are glad to welcome them and to work with them.

Tuesday evening the young people and their leaders enjoyed a splash party at the West Liberty swimming pool. The young people were very pleased with the pool and thought we were fortunate to have such a nice one.

Members of the Work Camp are: Sue Behrenberg, Pittsburgh, Westminister College student; Jacqueline Beirley, Aurora, Illinois, Monmouth College student; Vian-da Biddlecomb, Ewing, Neb., Kindergarten teacher; Peggy Black Cherry Point, N. C., Westminister College student; Ruth Bunn, Monmouth, Illinois, Tarkis College; Mrs. Anna Jean Carnahan, New Alexandria, Pa., Nurse; Charles Courtney, Monmouth, Illinois, Graduate Fellow Harvard University; Sarah Duff, Pittsburgh, Pa., Westminister College; Dagny Johnson, New York, N. Y., Junior College; Romona Jones, Edinburg, Pa., Waitress; Bonnie McAllister, Waterman, Ill., Monmouth College; Janice Murphy, Ezel, teacher and college student; Clarence McNamee, Coraopolis, Pa., Carpenter and student; Shirley Mullanix Benkman, Nebraska, Accountant.

Mrs. Bunn was called home as her employer was taken ill and she was needed. Miss Janice Murphy of Ezel was interviewed and was accepted to fill her place (Thursday); Kenneth Newhall, Usbridge, Mass., plans to enter service; Bill Potts, Glenshaw, Pa., works department store, plans to enter service; Marilyn Ross, Cannonsburg Pa., Tarkis College; Rosa Salter, Biggsville, Illinois, college student; Don Yankovic, Glenshaw, Pa., Washington and Jefferson College; Marcene Ward, Ezel, Ky., Morehead State College; Sonia Ward, Ezel, Ky., Morehead State College.

You all come see us.

New Research May Lead To Cause Of Much Mental Illness

Scientists may be on the verge of finding out the basic causes of a disease as a result of recent data on drugs that produce an "artificial insanity," Dr. Harris Isbell, director of the Addiction Research Center of the U. S. Public Health Service Hospital said in a speech in Lexington recently to the Optimist Club.

There is a very strong new current in psychiatric research today in two fields. One is in the uses of tranquilizing drugs in treatment of mental diseases and the other is drugs that produce "temporary insanity," or toxic psychosis. Dr. Isbell, reported research in the latter field reveals a marked revival of interest in such drugs long known and used by primitive peoples, particularly in religious ceremonies. He pointed out that such drugs as mescaline, mushroom components, or the "loco weed," have long been used by natives of Siberia, South America and the Caribbean to "feel outside their bodies," "see God," and place themselves in a hypnotic state, especially in religious experiences. Dr. Isbell said.

The accidental discovery of a new artificial drug called LSD by a Swiss chemist as he experimented with it for a purpose other than inducing a psychotic state, revived interest in these drugs, the speaker added. When the chemist took the drug, the director stated, he "felt his legs walk out the door without him." Dr. Isbell told the club that the use of such artificial drugs makes possible the safe study of "how normal people think and feel," because the psychotic state induced in normal people disappears in a few hours.

The rebirth of the "toxic" theory of psychiatry, which maintains that such psychoses as schizophrenia are a result of a bodily chemical disorder, or imbalance, possibly inherited, has resulted from this new research, Dr. Isbell observed.

Research being carried out with "experimental insanity" using the drugs, indicated the truth of the toxic theory, Dr. Isbell stated. Research, the speaker added, is going on at Tulane University and several other places in America.

Research has suggested that there is a material in the blood of schizophrenics, which will induce psychotic state in normal persons. If this is true, he said, scientists are on the verge of identifying the basic reason for mental disorder.

This is far from a settled matter, Dr. Isbell said. "If the big hope doesn't materialize, we will come out knowing a lot more about the human thinking and feeling mechanism and the work of the nervous system."

He said, "I suppose if you do anything to excess it is harmful. If you eat too much, or smoke too much, or eat too much, as some of us will today, it is harmful." He said that the people heard only one side of the story and that some of the greatest medical research centers in this country have been given millions by the industry to actually determine if anything in tobacco is harmful. He said that millions of farm homes and related industries depended on tobacco as a cash crop.

"We must stand together and find out the truth," he said. The support prices on tobacco have been set at $3.50 per hundred higher than last year.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To Editor and Readers of The Licking Valley Courier:

I enjoyed reading "The Road" by Buford C. Lykins of Caney in last week's paper. I think there should be more articles similar to it. There is good advice in this article, although we know good counsel regardless of how good and sound it may be, is not always heeded by those traveling this highway of life.

I wondered, Mr. Lykins, if you had read "Pilgrims Progress," it seemed so. I read the book for the first time about a year ago. It's well worth any one's time to read such a book.

I also read another good book or two last spring one, "The Robe" which is very good, but the one I started to mention was "Don't Grow Old—Grow Up," by Dorothy Cornege (Widow of Dale Cornege).

This book is very interesting, which emphasizes the Cornege Philosophy. In it she gives practical advice and lists many examples of the most basic of all human problems—the problem of maturing.

She says, "Whether we like it or not, time ticks by for all of us, our bodies age, but our minds do not necessarily mature unless we make the effort."

Mrs. Cornege tells here how exciting middle and late years can be, how young in spirit one can stay, if one learns to grow up as they grow older. She points out also that growing up is not an automatic process, but is a process under your own control, that if you so choose, even the in your fifties or older, you can still remain an adolescent—afraid to be yourself, a bore to your friends, disappointed in life, a kill joy; or you can still become the individual you are and want to be, lively in mind, aware of your virtues, as well as your faults, with many interests and a real appreciating of yourself and other people and surroundings.

This book shows how to achieve this true growth-upness. How by taking our responsibility by turning handicaps into assets, by raising above set backs and never losing faith in yourself, no matter what happens. A whole new world can open up every day.

One very interesting chapter is "To Know Yourself, like yourself and be yourself." She tells how to do it not by some elaborate, theoretical routine, but by a simple change of your thinking.

She says explore your individuality and you can have the maturity which will make life more exciting, more rewarding with every passing year. She brands loneliness as: The greatest American disease and says that the best way to fight this as well as the fear of growing old is to keep busy.

Someone else has said when we reach middle life and after, we should have hobbies and different and varied interests that the best way to make and keep friends is to make our selves useful and needed; that love and friendship must be earned by working for it and not taken for granted or a handout. Keep so busy doing good for others we don't have time to feel sorry for ourselves.

She gives several examples of people who have lost loved ones very near and dear to them that thought for awhile life was over for them, and that they could never be happy again. But when they really got busy doing for others their outlook on life was changed entirely.

I agree with Mr. Lykins that we waste too much time for unimportant things in life that should be used for the real important things.

There is and should be so much more to life than just making a living. This is very important and a must we know, but we should take some time to help our part in the many good organizations around us and grasp opportunities for helping others that our communities, nation and the world may be made a little better by our passing this way. Many throw opportunities away that could have gone to high school and college, as Mrs. Lykins says, but for every one who did not have such an opportunity there is much good they can do.

God has given each a talent for something and regardless of how large or small it may be, He expects us to use it and improve it wherever our lot may fall. As Mr. Lykins says, "We pass this way but once."

I'm sure my subscription has or is about to expire so enclosed is check for renewal. We, Orange and I, don't want to miss one issue if we can help it.

According to the calendar, the MCHS Homecoming is less than a month away and I'm sure many former students of the old school are planning to attend. There will be some that I haven't seen for years but unfortunately we will not be able to attend this year. However, I truly hope that the attendance will be large; that the entertainment will be good; that each and every one thoroughly enjoys every minute of it.

Fishing must be poorly up your way because Bernard hasn't had a big tale in Fishing News for some time. I could tell one but since you wouldn't believe it I'm organized the school district of Drumright. He appointed the late Frank Peters as the first superintendent there.

He later moved to the town of Depew where he organized the first high school in that town, starting with the 9th grade and adding a grade each year until it finally became one of the leading accredited high schools in the county.

While superintendent at Depew, Patrick was elected and served as Mayor of the town, at the age of 25. He gained national recognition by passing an ordinance abolishing all pool halls in the town of Depew, (there were three in number) because the owners thereof would not refrain from selling corn liquor to his high school boys. The ordinance has since been abolished.

Patrick served eight years as Creek County Assessor, during which time he was president of the state assessors association. After leaving politics, he established a law office and served ten years as City Commissioner and Mayor of Sapulpa.

Fred has been a real western cowboy for many years and now owns and operates a ranch south of Sapulpa. He also attained a national reputation as the champion bronco rider in the Creek Nation Indian Territory at the age of 17. At that time he was riding broncos at rodeos and other entertainments for the I- and Pasco ranches. In this way, he obtained money to attend school.

A highlight of Patrick's life was in 1909 when he was named the champion foot racer of Oklahoma after defeating the late Jim Thorpe, famed Indian athlete.

As a prize for winning the race, Patrick was awarded a suit of clothes. I shall fairness to the record, however, it must be admitted that in a later race Thorpe defeated Patrick.

An Early Start Helps Get More Into Day

Do you find time within the 24 hours to do everything you would like to do? Time was money to Ben Franklin, and a Greek philosopher named Theophrastus said — "Time is the most valuable thing a man can spend."

Using the last phrase as a title, the Rev. Margaret B. Irnhola, the Rev. Margaret B. Irnhola, gregational church in Groton, Mass., and also of the Christian Union church in West Groton, in the August Reader's Digest offers four rules for living within your "time" income.

They are: 1. Wherever you are going or whatever you are doing, start in time.

2. Do it now! Delay wastes time and saps energy.

3. Learn when best to say "No," and when to say "Yes." Because our time income is fixed we must learn to be selective in spending it.

4. Take time out. Do something that restores the lilt and zest to your living. A change is as good as a rest.

Green River, one of the prettiest in the United States, with its stillness, deep color, and closely overhanging trees, is believed to have been a subterranean stream. It is believed through the ages the ceiling above wore away and caved in, bringing the stream to the surface.

FLORESS—

REPORTER VISITS
LACY CR. CHURCH

FLORESS, Ky., July 30—(By Nora Easterling)—The James C. Conley family invited me to visit their Sunday school and their church at the Church of Christ at Lacey Creek. Being a little late for Sunday school I stayed for service. Their pastor, Rev. Charles Frederick, was sick and unable to be there. Service was introduced by the assistant pastor, Elder Arch Smith of Cannel City. Elder Smith delivered the message. Their once a month communion service was brought to order by a prayer of thanks by the Sunday school teacher, Mr. Rose of Hazel Green. The table was served by the deacons Ernie Bolin and Sewell Hamilton.

I met the Lacey Creek Sunday school teacher, Mr. Rose. He said he was one among 17 children. There were 92 present at Sunday school. Everyone was very friendly. One teacher, Mrs. Harold Frederick, gave me a "Look Out" paper to read. Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Frederick gave me a ride home. I sure feel welcome to go back. Mary Lou and Billy Conley were delighted to have me at the Sunday school and church.

Mrs. Chas. Frederick has been a member of Lacey Creek Church of Christ for over 35 years. She had two sons and two daughters-in-law to commune with her at church Sunday.

Women May Get Social Security At Age 62, Is Ruling

Under the new social security law, women may receive benefits at age 62 instead of having to wait until they reach 65. These earlier benefits first became payable beginning with the month of November 1956.

The law, however, provides that the monthly benefit of wives of retired workers and of women who collect on their own work will be reduced in proportion to the length of time before 65 they choose to have payments start. That is, these women may choose to have their benefits start with any month between ages 62 and 65, but the nearer they are to 65, the higher will be the benefit rate.

In the case of women who qualify on their own employment, the monthly benefit is reduced by slightly more than one-half of one percent for each month before 65 benefits begin. This may sound complicated, but it really isn't. Let's see how it works out in actual practice.

Mildred was 62 years old in February 1957. She is single. Mildred has heard about the changes in the law affecting women 62 to 65. She checks with her local social security office, and is notified that if she starts her benefits before 65, the reduced amount she will get will remain permanently reduced even after she is 65. Mildred must now decide whether she wants the reduced amount now, or whether she is willing not to have any benefits at the present time so that she can receive a greater amount later on.

Roughly the same situation applies to wives collecting social security based on the husband's social security account. In the case of wives age 62 to 65, the monthly wife's benefit is reduced by about two-thirds of one percent for each month before 65 a wife chooses her benefits to start with.

LUZ PLAZA TELLS OF HER COUNTRY IN RECENT LETTER

George is receiving social security benefits of $88.50 per month. His wife, Gladys, was 62 in March 1956. Gladys has also heard about the changes in the law affecting women. In February 1957, Gladys contacts her social security office and is told that at 65 she would receive $44.30 per month as George's wife. However, if she wishes, Gladys may choose to have her reduced benefits of $35.70 start with November 1956 (November 1956 because that was the first month for which reduced women's benefits were payable.) Gladys is also told that if she chooses the reduced benefit before 65 it will remain permanently reduced even after 65.

Like Mildred, Gladys must decide whether she wants to collect the reduced amount now or wait and receive a larger amount later on. Both Gladys and Mildred have had their status explained to them by their local social security office. It is now up to them to decide what to do. Further information may be obtained from the Social Security Administration District Office located at 411 19th Street, Ashland. The office is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday thru Friday (except national holidays). Also information may be obtained from the Field Representative of the Ashland office when he comes to West Liberty each Wednesday at 11:30 a.m. (CST) at the Court House. This service is free of charge.

OMER

Milford Williams and family of Dayton, O., recently spent a few days here.

Bill Williams and family of Fairborn, Ohio, spent the week end with his mother. We called Sunday on his grandmother, who has been ill but is better.

Noah Triplett remains very ill with heart dropsy.

The C. F. Bolin family is visiting their children in Ohio.

Mrs. Ina Stone of Salsersville spent a couple days last week with her mother, Mrs. Cora Watson and Jimmie.

Jimmie Williams attended the post office dedication in West Liberty Sunday.

Estill Vancleve and family were in West Liberty Monday.

Senorita Luz Plaza of Ecuador, who spent a month in Morgan county last fall as an exchange student in the International Farm Youth Exchange program, describes customs in her country in the following letter to Mrs. Curt Jackson and Linda Lu of Ezel:

Dear Mama Jackson, Papa Jackson and Linda Lu: I've been wanting to write to you for a long time, but I just have not had time. I always think of you very much and of the wonderful days I spent in your beautiful farm. I just hope that some day I can go back and see you and all the nice people I met at Ezel.

I am working away from home. My work is wonderful. I am an Extension Agent, but it is very different from the States. We have to work with very poor people and sometimes it is very hard but every day I like my work more; my mother does not like it at all because it is away from home but maybe in about six months we will have an agency near our farm where I would work with the Indians.

We are making gardens, because many of these people do not eat vegetables. We are also helping them make stoves, because almost all of them cook on the floor on top of three stones. We work with Ecuadorians and Americans; they have offered me a scholarship for next year for the University of Maryland but I still do not know if I will take it. I live with a family from Quito. The town I am living in now is very nice. It is very small. The people here are famous because almost everybody writes poetry and the boys here are very romantic. Almost every night they give me serenades under my window. So, Linda Lu, you better come and visit me so you can meet some of these poets.

My father has been named vice-president of a branch of the National Planning Association to aid Latin America. Among the other men that have been named are: Milton Eisenhower, Nelson Rockefeller and others. It sure is an honor for my father and for our country. He will have to go to the States twice a year.

In my next letter I will send some pictures. Please write soon. Say hello to everybody over there especially to Aunt Mary and Uncle Andrew. Linda Lu, how is your 4-H dress coming along. I am also working with 4-H and the children here. Sure like it very much. Do write to me Linda and say hello to all your young friends for me. I will always remember that nice party we had at the church and at your home. I imagine you must have lots of boy friends. Don't forget you have to come as an I.F.Y.E. over here. It is the most wonderful experience a person can have. I will never forget my trip to the States and all the wonderful friends I have there.

All my love to you, and please let me know from all of you.

Dr. Martin spoke at a luncheon meeting here Friday in the new building of the 8-acre Mayo State Vocational School. He said the school must be expanded beyond the 600 students it now accommodates.

Buddies Can Enlist, Train Together In U.S. Marine Corps

Two, three, four or even five buddies can walk into a Marine recruiting office and be given assurance they'll all be scheduled to remain together throughout the initial phases of their training.

S.Sgt. Floyd King of the Marine Corps Recruiting Sub Station at Pikeville, Kentucky, announced that now he has the authority to guarantee that close friends who enlist together will be assigned to the same "boot camp" platoon.

The Buddy System—the Leathemick recruiter calls it—applies even after graduation from recruit training at Parris Island, S. C. The buddies go together to Camp Lejeune, N. C. for their advanced individual combat training, still belonging to one platoon.

Sergeant King says the new idea is paying-off threefold. The guarantee of recruit and infantry training becomes null and void in a few circumstances. Each enlistee of a buddy group is given fair warning that disciplinary action, hospitalization, training set-backs, discharge or other similar action can cause individuals to leave the originally assigned platoon.

Asked if girls could get the same guarantee by joining the Marine Corps with their friends, the local recruiter answered in the affirmative but immediately qualified it with, "Men will train in men platoons and girls in Women Marine platoons."

"Should a man enlist with his girl friend? We can guarantee only that they'll train on the same island together—Parris Island!"

Points Listed For Sanitation In Food

Walter C. Blevins, sanitarian for Morgan county, states that good sanitation in food preparation is highly important in preventing illness, and lists these do's and don'ts for a housewife or restaurant operator:

1. Wash your hands with soap and hot water before cooking or after using the toilet.
2. Wear a clean apron, and use clean towels and dish cloths.
3. Keep your fingernails clean.
4. Don't wash your hands in the dish water or sink where food is being prepared.
5. Don't prepare or serve food if you have a cold or open sore on hands, arms or face.
6. Cook meats thoroughly, especially pork.
7. Keep all food covered and safe from contamination.
8. Use pasteurized milk, cheese and butter.
9. Store cleaning, insect-killing and disinfecting materials away from food, and label them well.
10. Don't store bottled drinks under ice or in water.
11. Wash the stirring spoon properly each time after you use it for tasting, if you must sample your cooking.
12. Refrigerate creamed foods and custard desserts if they are not to be served immediately.
13. Place for germs to harbor, cracked china and glasses, a good place for germs to harbor.
14. Do not handle food unless necessary.
15. Cover coughs and sneezes with a handkerchief or tissue.

VISIT FORMER HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Haney and children, Henry Clay, Herbert, Bonnie, Linda Sue and Jerry of Florress, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Haney and grandson James Stewart of Dayton, O., and Samuel Nickell enjoyed a family picnic and motor trip Sunday. They visited at Hazard, Vico, Alcock, Hindman, Garrett, Lohr, Martin, Allen, Prestonsburg and Smithsboro.

The two Haney families lived at Alcock and other mining towns about twenty years ago, and on the trip stopped a number of times to chat with former acquaintances and men they had once worked with in the mines. The especially enjoyed their visit to Alcock, where Herbert and Henry Clay Haney were born. The house where they lived had been torn down, but the boys found a large rock on which their father had cut their initials when they were small.

James E. Gross, who recently enlisted in the U. S. Navy, is stationed at the Great Lakes Naval Training Base.

CATTLE PRICES TO BE WEAKER

LEXINGTON, Ky., July 29—Steady to weak prices are expected for well-fed cattle (choice and prime grades) in August and September, the Kentucky Experiment Station economics department said in its bi-weekly outlook letter.

Prices for better grades have trended upward since February and market supplies have fallen below those of a year earlier, the letter said.

"Prices in July may have reached close to the peak for 1957 unless late fall prices move higher," the economists said. There are eight percent more fed cattle in 13 major cattle-feeding states than a year ago. Marketings of fed cattle did not increase during the first three weeks of July, but may increase in August and September.

"In fact," says the letter, "number of grain fed cattle sent to market is likely to be from 10 to 20 percent higher in August and September than for the same period of 1956." The economists also said a rising price trend for fed cattle could develop in the late fall and early winter months, due to an expected decline by mid-fall in marketings; a possible decline of cattle being placed on feed; and a slight decline in short-term feeding of heavy cattle for late fall and winter markets.

Kentucky farmers who have late-planted corn or sorghum grain may consider short term cattle-feeding this fall and winter. "Such an operation may be a good way to utilize this feed, particularly where storage and drying facilities are lacking."

For feeder cattle, the letter says further, prices may decline somewhat from present levels but likely will remain well above the 1946 prices. Improved prices are due to high fed-cattle prices and improved pasture conditions. A slightly smaller supply of feeder and grass-fat cattle is expected this fall, however; the calf crop may be three to four percent below the 1956 crop, and western states probably will retain more heifer calves.

"Prices of feeder cattle might tend to rise through the fall months," the letter states. "Such a trend is most likely if fed cattle prices show the expected rising trend noted previously. As marketings increase early in the fall season, reduced supply of feeder cattle may not make itself apparent until later on."

Newspapers Get Record High In Sears Advertis'g

CHICAGO, Ill., July 31—Sears Roebuck & Company in 1956 invested a record breaking $45,479,000 newspaper advertising space, Edward Gudeman, vice president, reported today.

This total marked the 11th consecutive year of record newspaper advertising expenditure for Sears and topped 1955's previous high of $41,775,600 by 8.9 per cent.

Sears' 1956 advertising expenditure was spread among 1,003 daily and weekly newspapers located in every state.

Mr. Kean stated that the newspaper dollar expenditure in 1956 represented 78.8 per cent of Sears' total local retail advertising expenditure. The total retail media expense of $57,777,000 was also a record high, exceeding the 1955 figure by 10.6 per cent.

Other local media which shared in a $12,988,000 expenditure last year included radio and television, circulars and direct mail.

In reporting the 1956 advertising figures, Edward Gudeman, Sears' vice president in charge of merchandising said:

"During the past year the newspapers of the nation continued to play the leading role in Sears' promotional efforts. Their effectiveness is a sales medium is demonstrated by the fact that Sears' sales in 1956 reached record high proportions."

(Dr. Norman V. Peale)

There is scarcely anything as thrilling as finding a person who loves his job and loves life. A lot of people are so filled with gloom and negatives, with groans and complaints that they cast shadows over all they meet. Now surely that isn't the way we are supposed to live. We are made to enter into the fullness of life and live enthusiastically.

Not long ago, I was sitting in my room on the twenty-second floor of a Chicago hotel overlooking Michigan Avenue, when there was a knock at my door. I opened it and there stood a friendly man, whistling, a pail over one arm and holding a brush in his other hand. "Good morning," he said. "May I wash your windows now? I'll be through in a jiffy."

I was busy with some writing and it wasn't the best time for me to be interrupted, but I answered, "Certainly, come in." He crossed the room, still whistling, threw up the window shade, fastened the rings of his safety belt to the outside hooks and stepped out on that twenty-second story ledge as calmly as though it were nothing at all. Two or three swipes and the window was washed. He repeated this performance on the other window.

"How in the world do you do that?" I asked, fascinated. "Do what?"

"Step out on an window ledge twenty-two stories above Michigan Avenue with such lack of concern and with no apparent fear. It's an amazing kind of job for anyone to do."

Nothing To It

"What's wrong with is?" he wanted to know. "It's a good solid window ledge." Then, seeing the amazed expression on my face, he explained: "Really, there's nothing to it. I wash half the windows in this hotel, and I ought to know. I enjoy my job. I love to see a window sparkling clean."

"I can see that you do," I admitted. "I must hand it to you for doing a dangerous job so casually."

"You've got to be relaxed," he explained. "I have a simple formula. Relax, knock on wood, and say a prayer."

Prayed And Relaxed

I couldn't go along with his "knock on wood" theory, because that is superstition and has no relation to prayer. But I was impressed that this window washer, like the housepainter, was a happy and successful man. He prayed, he relaxed, and he loved his job. This helped him to love in harmony with the creative flow of God's power. Both men exemplify that great Biblical text, which is important to truly successful living: "In Him we live, and move, and have our being." I don't know what the religious ideas of either man are, and I didn't ask. But I did know that each was applying God's power to the enjoyment of his job in life. And so can you.
